Instruction.

For Both Sexes—City.

THIS CONTINUED ADVERTISEMENT has been suspended for a few weeks as I was called to the "White City" to look after the Fair—or at least part of it—in which I am specially interested—the Harvard Education Exhibit." The Commercial Department of long is the business exhibition exhibit. It is the only "live" educational exhibit on the grounds, and attracts a good deal of attention as it should do. In this exhibit there are well-known business exhibits conducted by the undergraduates of the colleges, who serve as bookkeepers, clerks, stenographers, etc., and in addition to this is a splendid show of students' work, beautifully arranged in cases and open to inspection. In his delightful speech on Saturday, declaring the exhibit open, Chief Peabody pronounced it the "cap sheet" of the Educational Exhibit; and my opinion is that he didn't put it in too high. By the way, the monthly paper will be published from time to time, so that every month anyone's writing will be a spiritistic page. Paper, neatly bound, with lots of bright things in it. If you want it all you need to do is send your name and address to G. W. Lewis, Business Education Exhibit, Liberal Arts Building, Chicago, U. S. A.—Don't neglect the "U. S. A."—Chicago now belongs to the country.

The main purpose of this advertisement, however, is to advise our friends that the Packard College will close for the summer on Friday next, and open for the year on the first Tuesday in September. There will be the best time to enter; but if for any reason you cannot get back to town so soon, you might write and secure a seat later. The prospects are that the school will all end up early this year. "A Word to the Wise," etc. Send for prospectus.
